3-5 Right of use assets

A-Recognition and initial measurement:

- The Company recognises a right of use asset at the lease commencement date.
- Asset is measured at cost, which comprises the present value of lease payments that are not paid at that date.

Lease payments are discounted using the interest rate implicit in the lease; if that rate cannot be readily determined, the lessee’s incremental borrowing rate is used instead, The cost also includes any lease payments made at or before the commencement date, less any lease incentives received, any initial direct costs incurred, and the estimated costs of dismantling and removing the underlying asset, as well as restoring the site on which the asset is located or restoring the asset itself to the condition required under the terms and conditions of the lease agreement.

B-Right of use assets subsequent measurement:

- The right of use asset is subsequently measured by cost model after the lease commencement date. In addition, the right of use asset is periodically reduced by impairment losses, if any, and adjusted for certain remeasurements of the lease liability.

C-Amortization

- The estimated useful lives of right of use assets are determined on the same basis as those of property, plant and equipment. (EAS no.10)The right of use asset is amortized on a lease term, if ownership of the leased asset transferred to the company at the end of the lease term or if the company will exercise the purchase option. Otherwise, right of use assets are depreciated over the shorter of the lease term and the estimated useful lives of the assets.

3-6 Projects under construction

3-8 Long term investments

- Long-term investments are recorded at cost as of the date of loss of significant influence. In the event that the recoverable amount of any such investment falls below its carrying amount, the carrying value of that investment is adjusted to reflect the impairment loss, and the amount of the impairment is charged to the income statement for each investment separately.
- An investor (the company) loses its significant influence over the investee when it no longer has the ability to participate in making decisions related to the financial and operating policies of that investee.
- The loss of significant influence may occur regardless of whether there is a change in the absolute or relative ownership levels. - The cost of inventory is represented in the cost of acquisition and in addition to the necessary costs associated with the inventory to its location which to be ready for use.

that one or more events have had a negative impact on future cash flows from the use of this asset.

- The impairment test for significant financial assets is carried out individually at the level of each asset. As for other financial assets, which can and can be classified into groups in light of the characteristics of credit risk, the impairment test is conducted at the level of groups that share the same credit risk characteristics.
- All impairment losses are recognized in the income statement. The accumulated losses related to a financial asset available for sale that were previously recognized in equity are transferred to the income statement if the decrease in its value indicates a decrease in the value of the financial asset available for sale.

A cash-generating unit is the smallest identifiable group of assets that generates cash inflows that are largely independent of cash inflows from other assets or groups of assets. The impairment losses are recognized in the statement of income.
- The recoverable amount of an asset or cash-generating unit is its value in use or its fair value less costs to sell, whichever is greater. The expected future cash flows are discounted to the present value using a pre-tax discount rate that reflects the current market assessment of the time value of money and the risks associated with the asset.
- Impairment losses recognized in prior periods for non-financial assets are reviewed at the date of the financial statements to determine the extent to which there are indications that the loss has decreased or not. The impairment loss is reversed if there is a change in the estimates used to determine the recoverable amount, and the impairment loss is reversed within the limits so that the carrying amount of the asset does not exceed the carrying amount that would have been calculated after deducting depreciation or amortization if the impairment loss had not been recognised.
